

CONGRESS IS BUSY WITH DISCUSSIONS

VITAL QUESTIONS BEING DISCUSSED AT VARIOUS CONFERENCES TODAY.

TARIFF AND THE LOBBY

Both Items Play An Important Part in Congressional Investigations That Are Being Made.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 7.—Congress is enjoying the mid-summer heat and trying to dispose of the business at hand with as few members present as possible. The "Lobby Quiz" and the committee discussion on the tariff are the two questions that are compelling the attention of the members now in Washington and it promises to be a long hot session.

Senate Caucus.
Senate democrats caucused again today on the revolution to bind them to support the tariff bill. Opposition which developed Saturday was repressed, but Chairman Simmons and other champions of the bill argued that such action was necessary to extricate debate and assure its passage. Senator Simmons will report the bill to the senate today. It is a little more than three months since the ways and means committee introduced a measure in the house.

The Lobby Quiz.
With the renewal of the congressional inquiry into the "lobby" today, Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer and alleged lobbyist, who was "David La Mar" operated to obtain a position with certain Wall street interests, was on hand to take the stand for the second time. Senator Cummins of the committee finished his bill today. He would serve a term of years with a prison sentence to not more than five years or a fine of $5,000 or both, any person who sought to implicate a member of congress or any other public official. There is no law so far as has been discovered that will permit of the prosecution of David La Mar for his impersonations of congressmen.

Edward Lauterbach, under cross examination by the senate committee today admitted he had approached Lewis Cass Lydard, counsel for J. P. Morgan, with a statement that he represented Speaker Cannon and Senator Stone, but had done so at the direction of David La Mar.

Before Lauterbach's examination went on the committee in executive session debated whether his testimony would give him immunity from prosecution. The committee decided that La Mar had violated federal or New York state statutes. When they resumed the hearing Lauterbach assured the senators that he came before the committee voluntarily.

If there is any immunity for you mind as to immunity I waive it absolutely," said he. Lauterbach then explained at length his motives to rehabilitate himself in the good graces of the Morgan firm. He testified that until he had heard of the hearing, La Mar's testimony he knew nothing of La Mar impersonating Congressmen. Lauterbach added he thought La Mar "in some ways was the cause of the disaffection of large corporations to me. He knew La Mar was 'impulsive and hasty' in his actions but that he had never known him to do anything wrong.

When Lauterbach took the witness chair, chairman over read to him a statement made last week by Lewis Cass Lydard, a New York lawyer, at a conference on February 8th Lauterbach had represented himself as coming with authority as Senator Stone and Speaker Clark to make proposals to J. P. Morgan & Company and the steel corporation on behalf of democratic leaders in congress.

OPERATION PROMISES TO RESTORE MEMORY

Memory and Speech of Mysterious Man May Be Restored by Skillful Operation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rochester, Minn., July 7.—"J. C. B." the man of mystery at the State hospital for the insane, may have his memory partially restored by an operation performed Saturday according to Dr. C. C. Heyerdale of the hospital staff today. It will be several weeks before the exact result of the operation will be known the doctor said.

"C. R.", who has been at the asylum for several years, has completely forgotten his identity and has also lost his powers of speech. The hospital authorities may according to Dr. Heyerdale, attempt to teach the man how to talk even if his memory is not restored.

PITTSBURGH SECURES STAR PITCHER IN MCQUILLAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Columbus, Ohio, July 7.—Announcement was made today that George McQuillan, pitcher of the Columbus American Association, had been traded to the Pittsburgh National League club. The deal became effective today. In exchange for McQuillan the Indians club gets Perry Quinn and two other players, the identity of whom has not been disclosed.

POWERFUL CURRENT GOES THROUGH BODY

Appleton Youth Touches Live Wire With Nearly Fatal Results.— Burns Heal of Shoes.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Appleton, July 7.—George Rechner, aged 15 years, came near meeting death here Sunday afternoon by electrocution when he grabbed a telephone wire which had broken down during the storm Saturday morning and which was hanging down through a tree over a 2200 volt electric wire. Prompt medical aid brought the lad to his senses again and saved his life. A physician happened to come along as they were carrying the unconscious boy to his home and stimulants survived him. The current must have been rather strong although the high resistance offered by the electric line being insulated and the telephone wire touching the ground. The lad's right hand was severely burned and the current passed from his right arm to the left leg, smoke protruding from the shoe. The leg was badly burned, the stocking burned in the shoe and the grass where he was standing burned. The passing of the current from the right to the left side it is said was due to the change of nerves in the leg. He was walking along the streets at the time he was hanging from the tree. The physician said the lad might pull through, but no examination was made of the internal organs. It is feared the lungs might be affected.

PRISONER CONFESSES TO EIGHT MURDERS

Simon P. Helfinstine, Held in Los Angeles on Forgery Charge, Amazes Police Officials.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, July 7.—Arrested on the charge of having passed a bad check at a seaside resort, Simon P. Helfinstine, who is in jail here, today startled officials of the sheriff's office with a purported confession in which he detailed the series of eight murders in Ohio. These included the slaying of Pearl Bryan, for whose trial medical students, Jackson and Walling, were executed.

Some of the circumstances of the crime as related by Helfinstine do not coincide with known facts and county officials were inclined to believe the prisoner was suffering from the peculiar phase of insanity often noted in police work which causes the criminal to imagine he committed the crime of which he has only read.

LID CLAMPED TIGHT ON MADISON SALOONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, July 7.—Madison had its first experience with a dry town when every saloon in the city obeyed District Attorney Nelson's injunction to close. All but one or two of the moving picture houses remained open. Warrants were issued for the arrest of violators of the ordinance. The owner, Walter A. Hyland, pleaded guilty this morning and was fined $1 and costs. In municipal court today, Attorney Ralph W. Jackson, son of Attorney Jackson of Janesville, representing the liquor owners, after his request for warrants for arrest of a local newspaper manager for operating on Sunday, was denied, took the district attorney to task, referring to him as a "Boob."

SEAGRAVE COMPANY AGENT PASSES AWAY IN CHICAGO

Thomas M. Burke, the representative of the Seagrave Company of Columbus, Ohio, who sold Janesville its motor chemical and hose works, died in Chicago on June 18 as the result of a stroke of paralysis. He was suddenly taken sick at his office and died soon afterward. Chief Klein had been acquainted with Mr. Burke for twenty-five years and he had been in Janesville many times on business for fire apparatus manufacturers.

MOVING PICTURE MAKERS' CONVENTION IN SESSION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, July 7.—Historical libraries composed of motion picture films, and ocean steamships and long-distance trains equipped with motion picture shows are among the things predicted for the near future by the motion picture theater owners who are gathered in the metropolis for the third annual convention and exhibition of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. The motion picture men are of the belief that their business is still in its infancy. At the same time they declare that it is probably the largest business in the world today. Reports to be submitted to the convention show that in the United States alone there are 17,000 moving picture shows, and that these represent an outlay of anywhere from $1,000 to $150,000 apiece, while some are being built now that will go beyond the higher figure.

THREE MEN SEEK LICENSE TO MARRY MISS VANDLIND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Omro, Wis., July 7.—Three swains approached County Clerk Fish recently asking for a license to marry Miss Vandlind. At the second bid she was surprised, but at the third he was certain a mistake was being made. The puzzle was solved, however, when Guy H. Billings and Grant Smith of Watonville and Harry Wentzel of Wolf River announced that they were to marry the Misses Bestie, Lula and Mable Vandlind of this place. The trio of brides are teachers and graduates of the Oshkosh normal school.

Install Officers: Officers will be installed at the meeting of Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., and all members are requested to be present.

WILL WELCOME ELKS AT ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Governor Sulzer and Mayor Edgerton Will Welcome Antlered Hosts at Their 49th Convention.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rochester, N. Y., July 7.—Governor Sulzer and Mayor Edgerton will welcome the Elks here tonight for their 49th annual convention. The city is gaily decorated and elaborate plans have been made for the entertainment of the antlered host during the six days of the convention. Grand lodge politics promise to play an important part in the week's deliberations. A strong insurgent movement to break the state of the regulars has gained considerable impetus. The main interest centering in the contest for grand officer is Edward Leach of New York, present grand treasurer, is slated by the regulars for the chief office. He will be opposed by J. Cookman Boyd, of Baltimore, who is a liberal plan form, demanding a more open expression of the untrammeled will of the membership at large and not according to the dictations of any select few.

BREWERYMEN CAUSE TROUBLE IN DULUTH

Brewers Prepare to Fight Ordinance Divorcing the Brewery Ownership of Saloons.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., July 7.—The Hicken liquor ordinance which has for one of its reasons the divorce of saloon and brewery, faces a fight passed by unanimous vote of the council a week ago. It is due to take effect thirty days from its passage and publication on August 1, but opposition to it developed today. The brewery interests it is said will start a movement which calls for the referendum. The brewery, saloon, cigar stores and cigar factories interests will combine and it is intended, according to those behind the movement, to enlist organized labor in the fight. Small cigar stores fronting on the main streets of the city and in front of saloons have been forced to close. The sale of cigars has been restricted and union leaders has been restricted and organized labor in cigar factories.

GROOM IS KIDNAPPED AND SEVERELY HAZED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—Walter Stratton, 37 years old, a deacon in the Roman Catholic church here, who on Thursday was married to Miss Alta Barber of Humboldt, Kansas, was "kidnaped" from his bride by men members of the congregation at the close of the church services last night and severely hazed. Members of the hazing party said they sought to "punish" Deacon Stratton for going outside the church circle for a bride.

The hazers met Mr. and Mrs. Stratton at the church door. While two of them guarded Mrs. Stratton the others took Stratton to a pasture a mile away and tied him to a tree. Then they went to his boarding house and were "wrecking" his room when Stratton, having burst his bonds, appeared. He was "padded" and set free. He was not injured.

CONGRESS OF FORESTRY MEETING IN WINNIPEG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—The 15th annual convention of the Canadian Forestry Association, which assembled in this city today for a three days' session, is the most representative gathering of its kind ever held in the Dominion. Delegates representing all the provinces are here to attend the proceedings. The location of the convention city and the fact that topics of special interest to the foresters occupy the foremost place of the program have led to bring about an unusually large attendance from the central and western sections of the country. A great project for the reforestation of the province of Ontario and the prairie provinces is to be considered and acted upon by the convention. The planting of shelter belts, farm forestry, and numerous other questions, especially those pertaining to the protection of timber lands from fire, will also be dealt with by the convention.

DYERS AND CLEANERS MEETING IN OMAHA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Omaha, Neb., July 7.—A large attendance marked the opening here today of the annual convention of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners. Many cities of the United States and Canada are represented. The business sessions will continue four days and will be occupied with the discussion of a wide variety of trade questions. President William Morgens of St. Louis is presiding over the convention.

AMERICAN WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE WHILE IN PARIS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, July 7.—The body of the young American woman who committed suicide yesterday at Villabon near Meudon has been identified as that of Agnes MacDuff of Cambridge, Mass. She took poison on June 19 and died on July 4. It was thought at first by the doctors that she would recover. She steadfastly refused to disclose the reason for her act. She will probably be buried in Paris.

BODY OF NORTHERN FARMER FOUND IN WOODS SUNDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Wausau, Wis., July 7.—The body of Anton Kemp, a farmer of Harrison, Wis., was found in the woods near the county road yesterday. Kemp was a bachelor and had been in poor health. There will be no inquests.

YOUNG MAN DROWNS WHILE ON HIS VACATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Green Bay, Wis., June 7.—Frederick Christensen, 22 years old, son of Louis Christensen of this city, was drowned at Thiensville, Ohio, while swimming. He was working at Cleveland and had gone to Thiensville on a vacation.

TWO NATIONAL BANKS CLOSED UNDER ORDER OF THE COMPTROLLER

First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh and First National of McKeesport Shut Doors This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Pittsburgh, July 7.—The First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, the second largest in the city and one of the largest in the country, was closed today by order of the comptroller of the currency. The First National bank of McKeesport, Pa., an allied institution, also closed its doors.

Secretary McAdoo was so advised today, James S. Kuhn, president, is a brother of W. S. Kuhn, president of the closed First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh. The McKeesport bank's capital was $300,000 and surplus $50,000, according to the last reports to the comptroller of the currency. Directors and officers of the institution were long statement with the treasury department concerning the character and value of certain assets of the former First National bank of Pittsburgh, which was merged with the Second National bank last month, under the title of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, culminated this morning in the closing of the institution by order of Deputy Comptroller of the Currency T. P. Kane. Directors and officers of the institution were in session all day yesterday and most of last night with special bank examiners sent here to investigate the banks, and at an early hour this morning notices were posted on the bank doors that they had been ordered closed. The Pittsburgh Clearing House association had taken charge of the situation generally and announced that no further trouble is expected. None of the officials of the banks would make long statement this morning, announcing that affairs were in the hands of the government officials.

Preliminary reports on the condition of the banks seem to indicate that the First National, a new office building in which the bank has its home is connected with the difficulty. The bank's capital is $3,400,000. How much of that, if any, is impaired, has not been definitely determined. Prior to the consolidation of the First National bank with the Second National bank the affairs of the First actively engaged the attention of the comptroller's office and less than three years ago the bank examiners reported the "charging off" of nearly one million dollars worth of assets they did not believe should be carried on the bank's books.

The legal reserve of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh was fixed by $2,147,000 on June 4, the date of the last call by the comptroller of the currency. This brought the situation to a climax. Attorneys this afternoon appeared before Judge C. P. Orr in the federal court and asked receivers for the American Waterworks and Guaranty company and also for the firm of J. S. and W. Kuhn, Inc. For the former these were appointed J. S. Kuhn, W. S. Kuhn, H. Purdy, general manager of the company and Samuel Batley, Jr., a bank official of this city. For the Kuhn company was appointed J. K. Duff who is treasurer of the company. Bonds of $50,000 were ordered filed for each receiver.

KILLED BY FAST PASSENGER TRAIN

Former Racer Found on Tracks and Identified Through a Meal Ticket.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rhinecland, July 7.—A meal ticket found on the body of a man, struck and killed by a train at Three Lakes yesterday, identified the deceased as Edward Ryan, 692 Justine street, Chicago, aged 39 years. The meal ticket entitled the bearer to a week's meals at the mess wagon of a circus troupe.

Coroner Decanter of Three Lakes discovered that Ryan had been connected with an automobile act. William Lutz of Chicago, an automobile dealer, declared that Ryan had joined the circus, he was a competent garage man and had a reputation in Chicago as a driver of racing cars.

It is thought that Ryan stumbled and fell from a train, the upper part of the body was outside of the rails while both legs had been severed. The body is being held at Three Lakes.

To Keep the House Comfortable

No matter where you live or what the temperature of the outdoors, you can do just the thing to keep your house cool and comfortable if you spend a little time and thought on the subject. Your doors and windows should be screened and your windows fitted with awnings or shades. The sun should be kept out of the house. Then every window may be opened, so that the air can come in and the flies and mosquitoes will, perforce, stay out. If your rooms are darkened and well aired your house will be a pleasant place to come home to, especially if you have in the house a good supply of ice, and a variety of sensible summer food. Summer beverages are improved by bottled water, either naturally or artificially aerated, so it would be well to have something of that kind on hand also. If you have not already perfected your arrangements for making your house a pleasant oasis during the warm weather, read the advertisements in this GAZETTE and you will find across numerous suggestions that will help you to decide just what you want and where to get it.

ENDEAVORERS MOVE UPON LOS ANGELES

Twenty Thousand Visitors Expected at International Christian Endeavor Convention—Sessions Held in Tents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—Every train arriving in Los Angeles today brought delegations to the International Christian Endeavor convention, which is to be formally opened in this city Wednesday. It is expected that by tomorrow night twenty thousand visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada will be here to attend the proceedings of the convention. White-capped members of the local recruit committee are stationed at each of the railway stations to welcome the arrivals and escort them to their quarters. To accommodate the multitude the capacity of the hotels will be tested to the utmost, while every available house of rooms has been called upon to requisition. Many well known clergymen and other persons of prominence among the visitors are to be entertained in private homes during their stay in the city.

The general sessions of the convention are to be held in two mammoth tents which have been raised in Fiesta Park. The tents have a seating capacity of 20,000. A large number of praise and song meetings, conferences and religious services are being held in the various Protestant churches, which will include addresses on a variety of Christian Endeavor topics. There will be little routine business to transact during the convention. Only one actual business session will be held. This will be the annual business meeting of the United Society of the Christian Endeavor, which will be occupied with the annual reports of officers and business agents and the election of officers and trustees for the ensuing year.

The general sessions of the convention will be presided over by the Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder and president of the society. Among the well known speakers will be the Rev. Hugh L. Walker of Atlanta, the Rev. John Eulson Shaw of Chicago, the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Covey of Denver, and Dr. Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin College. There is already in progress here a lively contest for the next convention, the contestants being Toronto, Washington, St. Louis and Winnipeg. The Manitoba city is making a vigorous campaign and apparently is in the lead in the race. The contest will not be decided until next Monday.

ROCHESTER CROWDED WITH VISITING ELKS

Hotels and Boarding Houses Crowded To Their Capacity—Convention Opens This Evening.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rochester, N. Y., July 7.—The week of the forty-ninth annual convention of the Elks' Grand Lodge was ushered in here today under conditions of the most favorable nature. So great was the crowd yesterday that it was almost impossible to get correct registration of the arrivals, but Rochester's hotels are already more than filled and the downtown rooming houses are crowded to their utmost capacity. All the principal streets are thronged with purple and white decorations. The gathering formally opens in Convention Hall tonight with prayer songs and the exchange of greetings. The regular business of the convention will be taken up tomorrow morning. Edward Leach, of New York city, a candidate for grand exalted ruler, seems to lead for that high honor and his election is freely predicted. New Orleans and several other cities are contesting for the 1914 convention.

ONLY WISCONSIN VETERAN OF MEXICAN WAR IS DEAD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Green Bay, Wis., July 7.—William B. Morand, 91 years old, the only survivor of the Mexican war in Wisconsin and one of the five survivors known in the United States died here this morning. Mr. Morand fought under General Taylor and later under General Scott.

He came to Green Bay in 1851 where he conducted a small hotel for many years. He is the father-in-law of Peter C. Hart, a well known railway man.

BIG PACKING PLANT MENACED BY FLAMES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Omaha, July 7.—A fire which started today in the beef house of the Nelson Morris Packing company, threatened at one time to entirely destroy the half million dollar plant, but with the aid of a considerable portion of the Omaha fire department the flames were kept under control four hours later with a loss of $150,000.

SUPPOSED FRAUD ON WILL IS UNCOVERED

Will of the Late Sir John Murray Scott, Sustained in Court Today.—Jury Are Satisfied.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, July 7.—The will of the late Sir John Murray Scott leaving nearly five million dollars to Lady Sackville, daughter of the former British minister to Washington was sustained today by the jury which heard the evidence in the contest brought by Sir John's relatives. The jury found no undue influence or fraud on the part of Lady Sackville. CLAIM VICTORIES. A dispatch from Sofia to the Central News says official messages received from the front report the occupation of Nigrita to the west of Lake Tahnypas by Bulgarian troops who have also captured other strategic points from the Greeks. General Ivanov, commander of the Bulgarians, by a surprise attack dispersed a large part of the Greek army numbering 80,000 men under the personal command of King Constantine.

STRIKE CAUSES HALT IN RAPID TRANSIT

Thousands Find it Difficult to Get to Work, as Street Cars Refuse to Run—Much Discussion Arises.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, July 7.—The full force of the strike employees of the Country Traction Company, with surface lines in and between northern and western suburbs of Chicago, was felt today when business was resumed after the holidays which began with the Fourth. Not a street car was running. The vehicles available were too few to help much and thousands walked to their places of employment or to the stations of the steam railways of the elevated.

Mayor Smart of Evanston declared that the company, by failure to operate its cars automatically, had forfeited its franchise. He added that unless the lines were opened during the day he would call a meeting to discuss a proposition to get an independent street car line.

CONFLICTING REPORT AS TO THE CONFLICT

WAR CORRESPONDENTS LEAVE TO JOIN THE SERBIAN FORCES AT THE FRONT.

LOSS OF LIFE IS HEAVY

Roumania is Ready to Declare War Upon Bulgaria and Masses Its Troops on the Border.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Belgrade, July 7.—A number of war correspondents have left for the Serbian headquarters at Uskub. The commander of the Serbian troops announces that the newspaper men will be allowed to go to the front. Heavy Losses. Vienna, July 7.—Eleven thousand officers and men of the Serbian division were killed during the battle with the Bulgarians in which the division was defeated, according to the Sofia correspondent of the Reichspost. The division consisted of 15,000 men who were surrounded by a Bulgarian army which had outflanked them.

Some Details. Only 4,000 of the Serbians survived and these were taken prisoners. According to other newspaper reports a Bulgarian column of 14,000 men had succeeded in reaching the Serbian town of Vranja and is threatening the line of retreat of the Serbian army. The Bulgarians presumably were pushed forward from Bardi Palanka.

Denies Defeat. London, July 7.—The Serbian minister here denies the defeat of the Timok division of the Serbian army and says that yesterday it recaptured the town of Krivopalak from the Bulgarians. According to other reports here, however, it is not certain that the Timok division was engaged in that operation.

Driving Bulgarians. Saloniki, July 7.—Part of the Greek right wing has driven the Bulgarians across the river Struma and is now marching on the town of Serres, according to official reports from the Greek headquarters.

Roumania Ready. The mobilization of the Roumanian army will be completed by Thursday or Friday, according to dispatches from Bucharest. The Roumanian troops are expected to cross the Danube into Bulgaria immediately, and as a result of this step it is assumed that Bulgaria will be compelled either to agree to the Roumanian demands and permit Roumania to occupy the territory she desires, or engage in war. Heavy Loss Reported. Athens, Greece, July 7.—The Greek casualties since the beginning of fighting against the Bulgarians total 10,000 killed and wounded, according to official reports. After the battle for the possession of Kilkish the right wing of the Greek army forced the Bulgarians to return across the river Struma.

The Greek left wing, after severe fighting, occupied the heights south of Lake Doiran and then pursued the retreating Bulgarian army toward Strumaitza, capturing 12 field guns and inflicting severe losses.

BOY'S SKULL FRACTURED BY FLYING BASE BALL

SMALL ARMY NEEDED TO VALUE RAILROADS
Interstate Commerce Commission Recruiting Army of Experts to Obtain Value of Railroad Systems.
The stupendous character of the work involved in the physical valuation of railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission is emphasized in a statement issued tonight by the Civil Service Commission, which is charged with recruiting the vast army of experts and other employees required for the undertaking. The first of civil service employment will be held in all of the states and in the territories of Hawaii and Porto Rico, on July 21 and 23. So great is the interest among those seeking employment that already about 20,000 inquiries have been received at Civil Service headquarters. From all parts of the country, letters have poured in at the rate of from 600 to 1,000 daily since the announcement on June 24 of the first examination.
The only way a large force be required to complete the initial work of appraising the valuation of all of the railroads of the country, but after the final figures are obtained it is probable that a considerable number will be required to keep the information up to date. Thus, it will be seen that the work about to be undertaken will be permanent for a great number of employees under the Civil Service. Those who are appointed when the work starts and who go on, naturally will have the best chance for advancement. As the undertaking is entirely in its infancy, it is impossible to tell how long a task it will be, but it is estimated that it will require about five years. It will be started as soon as the employees can qualify.
While the Civil Service Commission is anxious to receive applications from as many qualified persons as possible, because it believes that the only way to get the best of such men, it has been found necessary to emphasize the requirement of experience in the different lines of work covered by the seventeen examinations to be held. Many of the applications for examination blanks thus far have come from engineers, station agents, conductors and others, whose qualifications are not of the kind required for the work about to be started.
The character of the work, the salaries and the manner of the examinations is explained by the Civil Service Commission as follows:
"Junior and minor positions of architect, mechanical engineer, railway signal engineer, electrical engineer, and structural engineer will be paid from $1,080 to $1,500; similar grades of civil engineer, inspector of car equipment, and inspector of motive power, from $1,200 to $1,500; senior inspectors of car equipment and senior inspectors of motive power will receive from $1,800 to $3,600 a year. There will be two grades each of senior structural engineers, senior civil engineers, senior electrical engineers, senior railway signal engineers, senior mechanical engineers and senior architects. The first grade will pay salaries ranging from $2,000 to $4,000 a year, and the second grade from $1,800 to $2,700.
"There will also be held on July 28 an examination for examiner of accounts in the Interstate Commerce Commission. These accountants will be paid from $2,220 to $3,000 a year for the first grade, and from $1,840 to $2,100 for the second grade. Applicants must have had actual experience in connection with common carrier accounting work with common accounting practice with state commissions engaged in the regulation of affairs of common carriers, or with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Seven years' such experience is required for the first grade, while five years' experience is sufficient for the second grade.
The examinations to be given by the Civil Service Commission for all these positions will be strictly practical in character. For the senior positions and for examiners of accounts the applicants will not be expected to come together in a room and sit at desks for the purpose of answering questions on how to appraise the value of railroad property, but they will be required to fill out an application and examination form prepared for the purpose, giving a statement of their general education and technical training, courses of study pursued, and where so pursued, also a detailed statement of their professional and technical experience along the lines of the duties of the position for which they apply, giving the names of their employers, with dates, day and kind of work they have done. They must make these statements under oath, and must give the names of witnesses who can corroborate their statements.
"The Commission acts upon these applications much as any business institution would act, except perhaps that the examination by the Commission into the education and experience of the applicants is more thorough and systematic than is customary with commercial houses. Specific inquiries are addressed to the references given by the applicant, and when all the evidence possible to obtain in regard to the education, training, experience and fitness of the applicants is obtained, the papers are placed before a board of experts accustomed to weigh such evidence—men who have a knowledge of the qualifications required in the position to be filled—and a percentage rating is assigned to each applicant according to the board's judgment as to the value of his experience and training for the position as compared with that of all the other applicants.
"For the minor positions, paying from $1,080 to $1,500, the examination consists of practical questions on the kind of work to be done, and applicants will be assembled for the purpose of answering these questions. The education and experience of the applicants will form a ratable part of the examinations and will be investigated in the same way as in the examinations for the senior positions, but with less rigid requirements."
The first date announced, July 21, marks the expiration of the period within applicants for the senior positions may file their applications and examination forms. On July 23, the examinations to be held throughout the country will be for the junior positions. July 28 is the closing date for filing applications for examiner of accounts positions. The dates of other examinations will be announced from time to time.

NOTIFICATION FOR DELAY IS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY
After July first, all passenger trains within the vicinity of North McGregor, Madison, Milwaukee, Janesville and Mineral Point, which are five minutes late or over, must have a notification made out by the conductor. He must upon the arrival, make out a delay report and have it sent by wire to all necessary points, so as to stop the confusion which many times occurs. Engineers will report hereafter all cases where the delays are due to engine causes.
Engineer Miller and Fireman Glover took train 135 out at eleven o'clock this morning.
Engineer S. J. Turner and Fireman J. Fox left this morning on the work train at 4:30, with engine 203.
Frank Drew, machinist, has reported to work after taking a vacation for a week. While on his lay-off, he visited many interesting points in and around Superior, Wisconsin.
Engineer Higgins and Fireman Martin took engine 401 on 103 at 5:30 this morning.
Engineer J. H. Walter and Fireman L. Cavey took train 91 at seven this morning.
Engineer A. Hillmeyer has returned to work after having layed off for the past two weeks. He had considerable trouble with his wrist, having had blood poison from a mosquito bite.
The wound is rapidly healing up.
Fireman F. A. Vausau is better and reported to work this morning.
Engineer James Gregory left for the east this morning where his mother is very ill.
E. B. Dawes is taking the Davis Junction passenger run for a few days, during the absence of Engineer James Gregory.
Engineer Hotes and Fireman Draht are working on the 7:00 a. m. switch-engine for a few days.
Fireman Price, Korte and Draht all reported for work this morning, after enjoying a summer vacation.
Engine 102, which has been in the local shops for repairs, was sent to Beloit, where it was put to work this week.
Fireman Kilkelly is laying off for a short time.
Price James has returned to work, following a short vacation. He exhibited some clever motorcycle driving at the Janesville races on the Fourth, winning two of the events.
Seven special trains were sent from Chicago to Fox Lake yesterday to carry the throng of campers to the lake. Each train was composed of fifteen cars, packed from end to end.

Get Sick Preaching Health.
"Coaching college athletic teams, according to those who have been there, is not exactly a large fat sinecure. It is a difficult matter for those who tutor the collegians in campus pastimes to retain their own health and vigor. The work is strenuous and enervating. Mike Murphy, the greatest coach of all time and the maker of more world famous athletes than any ten other coaches, broke down his own health in teaching others to preserve theirs. Alonzo Stagg, the Chicago University athletic coach, has been forced to retire from active service and is now in Denver trying to recover his strength. In bringing about the physical perfection of others he has lost his own.

Rodel Was Mad.
Gunboat Smith all but walloped the membranes out of a person down in New York the other day named George Rodel, and termed by some the "fighting Boer." And the "fighting Boer" earned the rep. of being a game lad. He became "indignant" in the third round, when Referee Billy Job gave the decision to Gunboat rather than "see" Rodel come to his demise then and there. Rodel had been laid out on the mat by Smith and only recovered in time to note that the referee hadn't taken the trouble to count him out. Whereat he rose up and wanted to argue that matter and even to continue the fight. He explained to him tactfully that he felt Rodel was in no fit shape to do any more fighting and that he would please consider himself licked. Rodel is regarded as being able to take considerable punishment anyway and will have to content himself with that.

Complains of New Umps.
President Gaffney of the Boston Braves has put in a kick to Lynch, the National League president, that is at least original and quite unusual. Gaffney asked Lynch please not to experiment with young umpires during the playing season. The protest is the result of a number of raw deals handed Boston recently by Umpire Guigley, a recruit from the International League. Gaffney says it's all very fine to have nice new umpires once in a while, but he objects to their practicing at the expense of his team's chances. So Lynch is now trying to figure it out. "If I don't try them out during the playing season, when the deuce will I give 'em a try-out."

Gone Where Woodbine Twineth.
Harley Coniskey has, or rather did have a pet antelope named "Monty." Monty, along with several of his kind, was kept at Coniskey's camp at Mercer, Wis., and was so tame that he would eat out of your hand. But the other day he was nosing around while a man was painting a boat. The boat was to be painted green and Monty took quite an interest in the bucket of paint. Finally he ate a bit of it. Green apples are bad enough but green paint it seems is even worse. Monty is now asleep under grass almost as green as the paint was.

MOTOR BOAT TRIALS FOR TROPHY BEGIN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, July 7.—The trial races for the selection of three American motor boats to compete for the Farrington International trophy began today over the Huntington Bay course and will continue over tomorrow and Wednesday. The three boats making the best showing in the elimination contests will be sent to England to take part in the trophy races which will be held off the Isle of Wight early in August. The trophy is now held on the other side, having been won by Mackay Edgar of the British fleet of challengers last year, in his Maple Leaf IV.

HARD FOUGHT GAME GOES TO CARDINALS; SCORE FIVE TO TWO

Crandall Pitches Masterly Ball for Cards, Only Allowing Two Scattered Hits.

Eleven clean hits, three of them good for extra bases, proved the downfall of the Rockford Orioles in their contest with the Janesville Cardinals Sunday afternoon at the Driving Park by a five to two score. Crandall was on the mound for the locals and fattened his strikeout record on the Orioles by eleven. At all times he was master of the visitors and only doled out two hits to them and these were four innings apart. The Cardinals played excellent ball throughout the nine, only making one error and accepting the near hits of the "Birdies" in fine style. The only defect in the locals' playing was their too daring and reckless base running, which cut them out for three earned runs. They hit the off-ferings of Thomas hard and often, despite the fact that he is one of the best pitchers that the Forest City club boasts of. The outfield played big league ball, holding down the long flies in a manner that brought rounds of applause from the large crowd of spectators.

The Rockford team was made up of good players, but ran up against a stone wall in Crandall, who mowed them down in regular order. The Oriole infield was guilty of four costly errors and the Janesville team made the most of them. Thomas was on the mound for the visitors and being aided by his large build was able to burn them over with dazzling speed and mixing his fast ones with a tantalizing slow ball caused five of the Cards to go out via the white route. He was fast, but he was not accurate, for the locals scored all their runs in three innings when they bunched their hits. At other times he was unhittable and being aided by good support, held the Cards in check enough to make the game interesting.

On the opening of the game the Cards bumped Thomas' delivery for "four hits but bad base running only allowed them to score one run. Nine men faced Crandall during the first three innings and five of these took three healthy swings at the ball. The visitors tied the score in the fourth when Crandall hit one of the batsmen walked another on a questionable ball and Hoffman scored on a sacrifice fly. The Cards were only able to boost high flies to the outfield in their half of the fourth.

Both teams were unable to put a man on base until the sixth, when a costly error by Ryan gave the first hit to Thomas and Rockford's first hit sent him to third, and he scored on an infield out. In their half of the inning the Cards slammed the ball for three hits and these were aided by two bouncers by the Rockford infield enabled them to put their lead up to four runs. Sullivan lead off with a scorching single to right field and stole second. From the keystone sack he scored with Ryan, giving the lead on the ball for a double. Ryan beat out an error and the two runners scored on Nehr's hit. Rockford proved to be easy in their half of the lucky seventh, one of them dying because of the accuracy of Wilson, and the other two were unable to touch Crandall.

Janesville increased her lead in the eighth by one run and had chances to make it more but for two attempts to come home on daring chances. Sullivan got his second hit and scored on Hill's two bagger. Both teams went out in short order in the ninth.

Summary.—Janesville: Wilson, c; Crandall, p; Hill, ss; Nehr, 1b; Retters, 2b; Ryan, 3b; Berger, lf; Sullivan, cf; Stewart, rf.
Rockford: Orioles—Johnson, c; Thomas, p; Graves, 1b; Hill, 2b; Schron, 3b; Kennedy, 3b; Hoffman and Thomas, lf; Blake, cf; Wigler, rf. Hits—Off Crandall, 2; off Thomas, 11.

Struck out—By Thomas, 6; by Crandall, 11.
Two base hits—Nehr, Butters and Hill.

Notes of the Game.
Crandall had an underhanded out that fooled the Rockford batsmen a great deal. They all had a notion to bite.

Graves, Rockford's shortstop, came near pulling off a sensational play when he recovered a grounded ball that Schron had missed, but failed to get his man on the throw to first.

Stewart and Sullivan did some great work in the outfield. Stewart caught three hard ones, one of which was almost to the foul line. Only one dispute marred the contest and this was in the sixth when Thomas got to first on an error and when Crandall tried to catch him sleeping the ball got past Nehr. Struck out—Judges' stand and bounced back far enough to enable him to relay the ball to Butters in time to touch Thomas. After a council of war the umpires allowed the Rockford pitcher stay on second and he scored on the next play.

Thomas' slow one proved the undoing of Burger who fanned twice. Crandall had Ellis, the Orioles' first baseman's goat, for he was only able to hit the atmosphere in the three times he faced the Milton college twirler.

From appearances Crandall has enough stuff on the ball to make a showing in the foster company of the minor leagues. He has good control, plenty of smoke, and a wonderful

START THE SEASON ON GRAND CIRCUIT

First Races Held at Cleveland Under Auspices of Forest City Fair and Livestock Association.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cleveland, O., July 7.—Quartered at the racing plant at North Randall, just beyond the limits of the city, are several hundred trotters and pacers who are to furnish the sport that marks the first link of the Grand Circuit, which was opened at the track this afternoon under the auspices of the Forest City Fair and Live Stock Association. Seldom, if ever, before have the horses reached the big circuit in such excellent condition for the summer's campaign. The spring training season was an unusually favorable one both in the North and South and as a result the horses look well to both the owners and handlers. Geers, Cox, McDonald, Murphy and the other noted trainers who are familiar figures on the big circuit—all are here with their strings of trotters and pacers.

The program here is an excellent one. It provides for seven stake events with a value of $19,200, of which $13,000 will go to the trotters and $6,200 to the pacers. As usual the largest field is entered in the $5,000 "Tavern Stake," the 2:14 trot for amateur drivers only, for which more than a score of horses will race. Next in number of entries is the $5,000 Ohio 2:10 trot.

TILLIE DOWNS WOODSTOCK IN TEN INNING STRUGGLE

Tillie, the Albany slab artist, and the favorite of many Janesville fans, did justice yesterday pitching for Belvidere against Woodstock, by winning an extra inning game in fine fashion by the score of 2 to 1. But six safe swats were garnered off his delivery, and his support was almost perfect. The game was a fast one, and Tillie deserves a good deal of credit for capturing the game as he did. Several weeks ago he won a twelve inning struggle for the Janesville Cardinals against the Beloit Moose by his clever mound work, and local fans will be pleased to know that he held the heavy Woodstock team down to six hits, and also breaking their string of fifteen straight victories with a ten inning defeat. He secured a two bagger in the last inning and stole home, thereby winning his own game.

MILTON

Milton, July 7.—Hon. P. M. Green and H. F. Crandall leave tomorrow on a lake trip to the Mackinac Islands. Band concert, with west show and moving pictures, were among the attractions here Saturday evening. Dr. Fred Welch and Miss Helen Welch of Janesville called on Miss Elaville Sunday.

Their Expression.

Nothing is to me more distasteful than that entire complacency and satisfaction which beam in the countenances of a newly-married couple—in that of the lady particularly; it tells you that her lot is disposed of in this world; that you can have no hopes of her. It is true I have none, nor wishes either, perhaps; but this is one of those truths which ought, as I said before, to be taken for granted, not expressed.—Charles Lamb.

WILL PLAY TUESDAY FOR HARRIS TROPHY

Preliminary Matches to Take Place Tomorrow at Sinnissippi Links—Much Interest Shown.

The first play-off for the Arthur Harris trophy will be played tomorrow afternoon at the Sinnissippi Links. Considerable interest is taken in the tourney, and some close matches are expected to take place. The cup is presented by Mr. Harris for the first time, and the winner receives permanently. The matches for tomorrow are lined up as follows: Al Schaller vs. H. E. McCoy; George King vs. Orie Sutherland; Charles Gage vs. E. C. Baumann; Wilson Lane vs. F. E. Lewis; Rev. Hazen vs. Frank Jackman; Rev. Beaton vs. W. Wheelock; Fred Sheldon vs. Fred Baker; Francis Grant vs. John Wilcox.

DEVELOPING CABINET

Collapsible Casing Can Be Carried by Photographer With Ease.

An ingenious portable developing cabinet for photographers has been designed by a Pennsylvania man. The cabinet consists of hinged top, back and sides, and when not in use collapses into flat surface. When set up it forms a low box with a window at the top and at one side, or rather, in front. Extending from the lower side of the cabinet are two sleeves, with rings to keep them closed when not in use, and elastic openings. The operator thrusts his arms through these and attends to the developing inside the box, the two windows letting in all the light necessary, while the colored glass in front protects the plates of film, as the case may be. Such a cabinet is light in weight and takes up little room. It can be carried along on any trip and pictures developed as they are made.

Kept Scholars at Work.

In Scotland up to the middle of the eighteenth century, the usual school hours were from 6 a. m. till 6 p. m., with two breaks of an hour earlier and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration in the hours was made on Saturday, and even on Sunday a certain amount of school work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candemans and at Whitson, and a fortnight in the autumn.

YOUNG MAN DROWNS WHEN CANOE TIPS ABOVE UPPER DAM

Paul Behling Twenty-Eight Years Old Second to Drown in Rock River This Season—Pulmotor Ineffective.

Treacherous currents in the Rock river caused the death by drowning of Paul Behling, and nearly claimed the life of his companion, Charles Heil, between five and six o'clock Saturday afternoon. Behling, who lives at 109 Linn street and Heil, who resides at 318 Cherry street, engaged a canoe at the Ideal Boat Livery near the west end of the Fourth Avenue bridge, both declaring on being questioned by B. D. Godman, that they were able to swim. They started to paddle toward the bridge under which it was necessary to pass before they could continue up the river. While they were underneath this structure the two young men attempted to change places with the result that the canoe was overturned.

The current at this place is very swift and powerful, but both were able to keep above the surface and started to swim toward the boat dock. Young Godman quickly noticed the danger the young men were in and shouting out in a canoe hastened to the rescue of Heil, who seemed to have the least hope of reaching shore unaided. This attempt nearly cost him his own life, but his skill in handling a canoe, enabled him to prevent its overturning and to bring Heil to safety.

Behling had but twenty or thirty feet to swim before reaching shore but became exhausted and was swept down stream. His cries for help were heard by Charles Abblet, fireman at the Janesville Electric Company's powerhouse, and running to the north end of the plant he pushed out in a launch. He worked a moment to locate however, to effect a rescue. Behling was out of his reach and beneath the surface. Abblet quickly fastened in his clothing, but the struggles of the unconscious young man caused him to slip off and go to the bottom.

It was but a few moments before Behling was again pulled out but this time he had ceased to breathe. There were no signs of life. He was aided by Joseph Lustig, a city surveyor in recovering Behling's body which was placed on the dock and physicians called. Drs. Charles Sutherland, Waulke, Dudley and Welch came and brought with them the pulmotor of the Gas company and all resuscitative methods for an hour although the heart had stopped beating where they arrived. Messrs. Wortendyke and Bohren of the Gas Company operated the pulmotor. All measures proved unavailing, their help in hope of reviving life after the heart action ceased.

Paul Behling was born in Berlin Germany, July 21, 1885. He came to this country with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Behling, several years ago. Surviving him besides his parents are two brothers, Frank of Milwaukee, and Richard of this city, and two sisters, Miss Betty Behling and Mrs. Frank Schwanke and his cousin Olga Pufahl.

Funeral services were held at the home at two o'clock this afternoon and at St. Paul's German Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. C. J. Koerner officiated. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

BOOSTERS' MEETING HELD THIS EVENING

Directors to Announce to Members Developments in Negotiations for New Industrial Plants.

All members of the Twenty-Five Thousand Club of Janesville are urged to attend the meeting to be held at the assembly room in the city hall this evening as important announcements will be made by the directors relative to the negotiations carried on for the location of new industrial plants in this city. During the last meeting, held a month ago, directors were elected and an organization was perfected. At tonight's meeting they will give an account of what they have accomplished during the interval. All misunderstandings as to policy or methods now appear to have been cleared away and the outlook is for harmony in all its activities.

TEACHERS' PENSION REPORTS SOON DUE

Should Be In Hands of County Treasurer By July 10—Only Three Received Thus Far.

Although all reports as to the amount of money to be contributed to the teacher's retirement fund, and the remittance of the quota of the cities, villages, and townships to the fund have been received by the county treasurer, only three reports have been received by Thursday, July 10, only four reports have thus far been received. They are those of Janesville, Clinton, Evansville and the Town of Avon. Last year the greater part of the reports were not received until the last of July. Some were received in August, and some as late as February 4. School clerks have been warned that districts that do not comply with the law for the school year 1912-1913 will lose their share of the seven-tenths mill tax apportionment. Every school clerk or secretary must make a sworn itemized report even if the teacher in the district is under the law and prepare two blanks, one as a report to the town treasurer, and one for report to the county or city superintendent. Only the treasurer's report needs be sworn to. The county treasurer must report to the state by August 1.

Graduated returns have been noted in the reports and remittances made thus far. Last year Janesville contributed to the retirement fund $462.67; this year $623.02 was contributed. Clinton last year contributed $54.40; this year $40.00. Evansville last year contributed $3.85 and $49.05; Avon township $10.95 and $20.25. The total amount collected in the county last year was in round numbers $950.

INSTITUTE SESSIONS WERE OPENED TODAY

Fifty-one Enrolled When Classes Were Organized This Morning—No Afternoon Recitations.

Fifty-one teachers were enrolled when classes were organized at the high school this morning for the Rock County Teachers' Institute to be conducted in this city during the next three weeks under the supervision of County Superintendent of Schools O. D. Antisdal. It is expected that the enrollment will be materially increased during the next two or three days. All members of the faculty were given assignments to be given the teachers—Principal H. C. Buell, Principal F. J. Lowth, Miss Ella Jacobson, and Emil Roethli. Recitations will begin at eight o'clock in the morning and continue until shortly after twelve, so that no time will be held during the heat of the afternoon. The recitation room will be open from 1:30 to 3:00 and an instructor will always be in charge during this period to answer questions and give whatever assistance is needed.

The annual convention of school board members of Rock county will be held at the high school next Thursday, July 10.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The Summer Club of Household Economics will meet with Mrs. J. B. Day 203 South Third street, Thursday, July 10. All members whose names begin with the letters from B to L inclusive will please bring a helpful suggestion, in response to "roll call" for the month. Members are requested to bring dishes and one article of food.

May Be Something in Dreams. Belief in the prophetic power of dreams has run round a rosy. Men formerly thought dreams foretold future events, dreams gave good advice for the regulation of one's future conduct, dreams told where to find lost articles. Then as we grew more sophisticated we regarded dream omens as mere superstition. Lately some of the closest investigators of dreams have begun to switch to the former opinion.

Aid for Short-Sighted. A German doctor has devised a revolutionary method of correcting poor eyesight. It is a telescope spectacle and is claimed to be the best and healthiest method for a near-sighted person to bring objects close to the eyes and thus see well at a distance. The glasses are a combination of a convex objective with a concave eyepiece and have to be fitted most carefully to each person.

ARMY DESERTER SON FORMER LOCAL MAN

Reward for Arrest and Delivery of Richard Potomack, Reported As Deserting His Battery.

According to a poster received at the police station in this city from the Adjutant General of the United States Army, fifty dollars reward is offered for the arrest and delivery of Richard Potomack, private in Battery D, 5th Field Artillery, who it is reported deserted from Ft. Snelling, Minnesota on June 9, 1913. He enlisted on December 12, 1912 for seven years service, and at enlistment gave his residence as 1253 Kedzie avenue, Chicago. As the name and address of the person to be notified in his behalf in case of emergency he gave that of Joseph Potomack, his father, 615 Pleasant Street, Janesville. Joseph Potomack, who conducted the establishment known as the Paris Tailoring Company on South Main street, left the city with his possessions very suddenly several months ago, leaving behind him it is alleged, a number of unpaid creditors.

Search for him was made by the police in Chicago immediately after his desertion, but his whereabouts were not discovered. He had succeeded in disposing of the property that he carried with him on his departure.

DAVID B. JEFFRIS DIED ON SATURDAY

Passed Away at Huron, South Dakota—Only Son of Late William Jeffris—Funeral in This City.

David B. Jeffris, only son of the late Wm. Jeffris, died in Huron, South Dakota, at 11 o'clock Saturday evening July 5. The remains will arrive in Janesville tomorrow evening and brief funeral services will be held at 9:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, at the home of Miss Susan Jeffris, last of Jackson street. The burial will be made in the Grove cemetery in the Town of Center. Mr. Jeffris was born in this county January 23, 1859, but for many years past had been a resident business man of Huron, South Dakota.

He had been in failing health for some time preceding his death. Of his father's family line, there is surviving him only a niece, Mrs. Frank Phelps of Kimberley, Wis.

LARGE NUMBER ATTENDED HOMECOMING AT PLYMOUTH

Two hundred and fifty attended the homecoming of members, past and present of the Plymouth Methodist church held yesterday. Some of them from as far away as Kansas, and there were others from Janesville, Madison, Beloit, and other cities. Services were conducted by the Sainsbury of Orfordville, the church in that village suspending services for the day in order to share in the festival. The Rev. Boag, a former pastor, also took part in the services. The musical numbers were given by members of the choir twenty years ago, the young people's choir, and a quartette from Orfordville. A picnic dinner was served. The collections totaled about $50.

ALL SALOONS CLOSE FOR ELECTION DAY

Chief of Police E. H. Ransom Serves Notice on Bar-rooms and Patrons.—No Evening Re-opening.

Janesville saloons will be closed all day tomorrow, which includes the evening, because of the holding of a primary election and vote on the issuance of bonds for the Milwaukee street bridge. All saloon keepers and bar tenders are made aware of this fact by the terms of their licenses, but patrons are often forgetful and Chief of Police Ransom thought it best to give them their usual warning. The closing is by state law, not by city ordinance, and the police will keep strict watch to see that it is observed. Since the number of saloons has been reduced and confined to a zone the task of supervising the saloons has been simplified for the policemen.

GENERAL MANAGER PLAN IS A SUCCESS

Enterprising cities of the United States are putting their affairs into the hands of experts. They are hiring "general managers," who know something about business and business methods of running the affairs of a municipality, instead of electing politicians who may either be corrupt or incompetent.
The "general manager" plan was started in Staunton, Va., a town of 12,000 population, five years ago. The city's first and only general manager is S. D. Holsinger, who has been remarkably successful in running the affairs of the city and keeping expenses down.

The Theatre

"IN WRONG." one of the funniest musical tabloids, headed by Eddie De Noyer and Rosie Danis opened at the Myers Theater for a four days engagement Sunday matinee. Mr. De Noyer and Miss Danie will be remembered by their clever work in the Isle of Spice. Show Girl and Gringer Bread Man being co-stars with E. C. Whitney for several seasons. Mr. De Noyer has a company of twenty people with a beauty chorus.
"In Wrong" is full of situations and lines. Two husbands take an actress on their yacht and when her gloves are found the trouble starts. One lie after another is told which only makes the situation more tangled. Musical numbers are introduced during the action of the piece by De Noyer, Miss Danie and others with clever singing and dancing by the chorus. Popular prices will prevail. As an extra feature for Monday night a chorus girls' contest will be given after the second performance. Prizes will be given to the ones doing the best vaudeville specialty, the audience being the judge.

Although the women who led the fight for equal suffrage in Illinois declare that members of their sex will not run for office, they are also very positive that women are henceforth to be a power to be reckoned with by the politicians. Chicago women are planning to take an active part in the next city campaign.
Governor Dunne has been the recipient of many bouquets from the women for his courageous action in signing the equal suffrage bill despite the protest of powerful interests in Illinois.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"PEOPLE who are fond of appearing in the light of patrons will go through fire and water to serve you, who yet would be sorry to find you no longer wanted their assistance, and whose friendship cools and their good will slackens as you are relieved by their active zeal from the necessity of being further beholden to it."

It is generally admitted that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

It is not so generally appreciated that it is much easier to do so.

When some poor, unsuccessful creature, who has to accept constant benefits from a successful friend or relative, fails to continually praise his benefactor, he bitterly condemns his ingratitude, and contrast his character with that of his kind and generous friend. Now I don't question that ingratitude is a very unworthy sentiment, but I do sometimes wonder if the fundamental character of the two friends is so very different after all. Suppose the roles of benefactor and pensioner were reversed. Can we be sure that he who fills the pleasant and dignified role of benefactor so benignly would play the hard and inglorious part of pensioner with a better grace than his present actor?

One of the best short stories I have read for some years concerns two chums, one of whom made a tremendous success as a musician, while the other remained in a mediocre position. The successful one was always a generous patron of his old friend, and for many years the other loved him and praised him. But at last he began to grow tired of always singing his friend's praises, he rebelled against his own failure and in a burst of passionate feeling he told the great violinist all this. And, wonderful to relate, the great man not only understood but even felt that if the conditions had been reversed he might not have been so patient and unselfishly admiring as his friend.

Please understand, I am not defending ingratitude. I am just reminding those of us who are lucky enough to be able to give, that it is far easier to give than to receive, and that perchance those who receive from us deserve more credit and honor for receiving gratefully than we for giving.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

If "silence cloth" sticks to table, line one side with cheesecloth or old muslin and put lined side next to table. No more lint will stick to the surface.

For Cockroaches—Wash all places where they run in strong alum water and they will leave. Pour boiling water over the alum so it will dissolve well.

If cane seated chairs sag, turn bottom side up and wash in good hot water. This will shrink the cane, and the chair will look nice when dry.

After drying salt for the table, let it get quiet cold before filling the salt cellars, or it will lump.

To can cherries and have them firm. Seed them, let stand in sugar over night. Heat and can.

Salmon Loaf, Horseshoe Sauce—Remove salmon from can, rinse very thoroughly with hot water, and separate into flakes. Mix one-half tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of mustard, and a few grains of cayenne; then add one egg, slightly beaten, one and one-half tablespoonful of melted butter, three-fourths cupful of milk, and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly at first, and afterwards occasionally. Remove from range, and add three-fourths tablespoonful of granulated gelatin soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Strain mixture, add flaked salmon, turn into a mold, and chill. Remove from mold to a nest of lettuce leaves and serve with horseradish sauce.

Cornmeal Gruel—Mix two tablespoonfuls cornmeal with one tablespoonful flour and a little salt; add enough water to make a thin mixture and boil over fire, stirring constantly one hour if directly over the flame and a little with milk; or it may be made with milk and cooked in a double boiler for three and one-quarter hours.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Keeping it clean and well brushed.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Am a young girl twenty years old. Is it all right to correspond with fellows from different places if your parents don't object?

(2)—Is it all right to let a fellow that you correspond with come to see you, although I have never met him?

(3)—Is it proper to exchange pictures with a fellow, when he sends his picture first? BEATRICE.

(1)—If your parents do not object to your corresponding with men who have never been properly introduced to you and about whom they know nothing at all, I can only think that your parents do not recognize their responsibility toward a daughter. A great deal of harm may be done to a girl by corresponding with men she doesn't know to be respectable.

(2)—If he will furnish you with credentials that he is all right, and is anxious to get acquainted with your whole family, as well as have you meet his family, you might let him call and get acquainted. Otherwise turn him down.

(3)—Not unless you are engaged to marry the man.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

On my desk lie three letters in answer to my appeal to my women readers for their opinion concerning an Exchange for Janesville and our surrounding cities and country.

They are splendid. I hope to receive many more such letters and if the ones to come are as helpful, as brilliant of bright ideas and good suggestions as these, I have before me, our Women's Exchange is an assured thing.

What strikes one most forcibly on reading these letters is the unselfishness that pervades them all. Each writer is willing, eager to work at home and put her work in the Exchange, but they none of them want a fair profit. They want to help others. On that point lies the emphasis of all the letters. One woman, a widow, with three children heavily on her hands, generously says, "If I could take the remnants in Westwick's basement and make them up into clothes for little children at ever so small a profit, I would feel amply repaid." She goes on to say that she knows that all over Rock county are mothers who work all day long, every day, and never have a moment to devote to sewing. Still their little children must be clothed.

The tone of her letter is helpful, inspiring and shows plainly that here at home our "social reform" can broaden a bit and we women can co-operate and help each other.

One young girl living at home says that she will be glad to help in any way and do what she can to make our exchange a success. Right here I want to thank her and say that I will certainly call on her for aid and help in many ways and I think she is a lucky girl, indeed.

Still another woman writes me of her ability to can and put up fruit and do home baking in a way that makes me long to take up my abode with her and thus solve all my home difficulties.

Now can't the women who are seeking help daily, the women who really need help to successfully run their homes, keep up, get in touch with these sisters of theirs who have a little surplus time to devote to work that they invent the time to do, can't the women who have the time to do all their sewing call on these women (through the exchange), who have the ability, time and inclination to fashion little garments, slip-on-aprons and the hundred other necessary home essentials? Can't we have a department where help can be secured by the hour, day or week? Yes, or by the evening, so that we married folks with a family of growing ones could come to a lecture together, knowing that everything was all right at home?

With most married couples of slender income (this class embraces us all, or most of us), a chance to go out together is a rarity, for its a lady and a baby and another baby. Now that's all right. No one wants to be married and not have it so. But men as well as women will candidly say that if they could occasionally come home dressed up in their very best and go out for any evening alone without the baby, indeed, for a woman to know that she can do her hair in its most becoming way, put on a fresh little gown and go out with the one and only man in the world, is bliss untold. This could all be made possible by the Woman's Exchange.

If I had time and space to tell you what other exchanges are doing, you'd not say I was too enthusiastic. I'd rather have one here in our own town.

An exchange properly conducted can be an Aladdin's lamp in we women's hands.

Let me all write and express your opinions on the subject. Add all letters "Woman's Clearing House" care Gazette.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THESE are good physiological reasons to favor pleasant society at table, and, besides these, there are good, intellectual reasons, also.

WHAT SHALL WE EAT?

At this season of the year there is such a wealth of fruits and vegetables that we should have something in salads and fruits at least once a day upon our tables. It would be wise for those who blame the salad for attacks of indigestion to look into the salad dressing for much of the trouble. Mustard in any quantity is decidedly unwholesome, a more suggestion is enough for those who will insist upon its addition. A simple French dressing, with salt and pepper for seasoning, can hurt nobody.

A sour cream dressing is also delicious, made as follows: Let a cup of cream just turning sour stand twenty-four hours; then, before using, whip until thick; add one-half tablespoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Beat well into the cream, so that it will be well blended. If the lemon juice is added to the sugar and dissolved before adding, it will mix better.

Asparagus Salad.—Tie a bunch of asparagus tips together and steam until tender. Cut rings of red pepper or tomatoes, slip the stalks of asparagus into the rings and place on a lettuce leaf. Serve with any desired salad dressing.

Lemon Salad Dressing.—Take a third of a cup of lemon juice and a half teaspoonful of salt, add slowly the well beaten yolks of three eggs; cook in a double boiler until the egg is set, cool and beat into this a third of a cup of olive oil; beat until it becomes creamy. Use a Dover egg beater and three minutes will be sufficient time.

Nut Potato Salad.—Mix two cups of rice potatoes which have been cooled with a cupful of pecan meats broken in bits. Sprinkle with salt and marinate with French dressing; arrange on a bed of water cress or lettuce and garnish with halves of pecan meats.

Rochester Soup.—This is a rich dinner soup. Blanch two-thirds of a cup of almonds, chop and pound in a mortar, add gradually, while pounding, four tablespoonfuls of water, a half teaspoonful of salt, then add three cupfuls of chicken stock, one sliced onion and three stalks of celery broken in bits. Simmer an hour, rub through a sieve and bind with three tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together.

Recipes for Afternoon Tea.

In many homes, both in the country and city, afternoon tea is a daily institution of considerable importance. It is not always convenient or desirable to send to a confectioner for the dainty cakes which every hostess likes to serve with tea. So they are usually made at home.

In warm weather the tea, cocoa, coffee or other beverages are usually served cold, and frequently, instead of afternoon tea cakes, dainty sandwiches may be served.

While traveling through England and Scotland recently I was able to secure some deservedly popular recipes, such as scones, rolls, oat cakes and others which are so well known and perfectly made there, but not in our own country. These recipes have been proved and may be relied upon for making any of the cakes in which baking powder is used, handle as little and as lightly as possible. Two housekeepers working from the same recipe will produce entirely different results if one kneads such dough and the other handles it only enough to get it into shape for baking.

English Recipe for Tea.

Fill the kettle with fresh cold water and set it to boil. If soft water can be procured, it should always be used. Make the tea directly after the water boils.

Never make the tea with water that has been long on the fire simmering, or that has been twice boiled. The natural aeration of the water is drawn off by long-continued heating and the hardness of the water is increased by the evaporation that takes place. The more rapidly the water is heated, the better the tea.

Warm the teapot. Put in the tea in the proportion of one ounce to six or seven persons, or a teaspoonful for each person and teaspoonful over. Pour on the boiling water. Cover the teapot and allow it to stand three to five minutes to draw.

Take care to use a teapot in right proportion to the size of your party. If the teapot is not filled the tea cools rapidly.

If tea is required in haste, while the water is coming to the boil put the tea into the teapot and stand it inside the oven until it is thoroughly hot through.

Pour on the boiling water and in a minute it will be ready to pour out.

Fine China teas are the best of all, but for ordinary use most persons like a blend of China and Indian teas. Three parts of China tea to one of Indian is a good mixture.

iced Tea.

Make tea as directed, using four teaspoonfuls of tea for two cups of boiling water. Strain into glasses.

one-third, full of cracked ice and serve powdered sugar and quartered lemon or oranges with it.

iced Coffee.

Make extra strong coffee and pour into glasses one-third of cracked ice and serve with powdered sugar and a pitcher of cream. A much finer flavor is produced by both tea and coffee when iced by cooling the infusion quickly. Or beat two eggs very light with one pint of milk and one-quarter cup of cream; mix with one quart of strong coffee and set in the refrigerator for several hours.

Scotch Scones.

Material—Pastry flour, two cups; baking powder, four teaspoonfuls; sugar, two teaspoonfuls; salt, one-half teaspoonful; butter, four tablespoonfuls; eggs, two; cream, one-third cupful; currants, one-half cupful.

Directions—Sift all the dry ingredients together into the mixing bowl. Cut the butter into this with the chopping knife; add the currants and the well-beaten eggs and cream, mixing as little as possible. Turn on to a floured board and pat until about half an inch thick. Cut with a large round cutter and cut into four three-cornered scones. Brush over with cream and sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake in a quick oven.

London Buns.

Materials—Flour, one pound; butter, four ounces; sugar, four ounces; eggs, three; candied peel, two ounces; milk, one cup; lemon rind, grated, one-half; currants, four ounces; baking powder, one teaspoonful.

Directions—Rub the butter into the flour. Add the baking powder, the candied peel cut small, the currants, sugar and lemon rind. Beat the eggs light and stir them in; add the milk. Divide quickly into twelve parts, form into buns, place them on a greased baking sheet, brush them over with egg and bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes.

Note—In all these recipes one pound flour equals four cups; four ounces butter equals one-half cup; four ounces sugar equals one-half cup; four ounces currants equals one-half cup.

Savoy Cake.

Materials—Eggs, six; sifted sugar, one-half pound; flour, one-half pound; essence of lemon, one tablespoon.

Directions—Beat the eggs with the sugar over a gentle heat till cold. Add the essence of lemon and stir in the flour very gently. Butter a mold or individual molds; coat with fine sifted sugar, pour in the cake and bake in a moderate oven nearly half an hour.

JANESVILLE IN NEED OF NEW DECLARATION

SHOULD SHOW INDEPENDENCE OF DICTATION FROM THE SALOON INTERESTS.

PROGRESS BEING MADE

The Rev. Randolph in Sermon at Union Services Commends Efforts to Regulate Business.

"Janesville needs a new declaration of independence," said the Rev. Dr. Randolph in his sermon at the union services in the Congregational church last evening. "It is as much in need of one as were the thirteen colonies in 1776, and the tyranny it should crush is the tyranny of the saloon. I am told that many of your businessmen are afraid to take a stand on the subject of the saloon because of fear of a boycott instituted by the liquor interests. It is time the people of your city throw off his despotism and permitted its forces for good to assert themselves."

"You have made a good beginning in reducing the number of the saloons from fifty-two to forty-two. The accomplishment in itself is not great, but it is a recognition of the fact that the business is dangerous to the public welfare that the public has a right to put them out of business."

"These significant and timely statements were made in the course of a sermon on independence, the speaker taking as his text the tenth verse of the second chapter of Luke: 'And the angel said unto them, fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people.'"

"Back in 1776 a band of patriots on the fourth of July drew up a declaration which opened with these words: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.'"

"How strange these words would have sounded in the ears of Pharaoh, of Ramesthes, the son of Solomon, who said: 'My father has chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.' The sentiment was not strange, for it was then and long after believed that the king could do no wrong."

"The beginnings of self-government were in the old Hebrew commonwealth, but the real inspiration and foundation of freedom is in the teaching of Christ, who answered the old question of Cain, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' with the Golden Rule, 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.' Long before Abraham Lincoln was born, the old idea of freeing a million slaves, Jesus Christ was born in a cradle at Bethlehem, taught the equality of man before God, the brotherhood of man, and salvation for the sinner. He recognized no class in his ministrations of healing, whether they were the sons of the flesh, or sick souls. His last charge to His disciples was: 'Go ye into the world, and preach the Gospel to every living creature.'"

Jesus Christ placed the crown of kingship upon the head of the common man. The roots of our citizenship are in the New Testament and its foundations were laid by Bible-loving men."

"King George III is dead and his tyranny has long been broken, but he has his successors among us. It makes no difference whether they wear a crown or the plug hat of a ward boss; the oppression and the unrighteous domination is there."

"A great historian has said that civilizations stand or fall by the character of the people. When the character deteriorates, the civilization decays. He has never known of any nation to decline through the want of intelligence alone. The usual course of decline is the loss of the virtues, following the establishment of peace and security, the growth of egoism with the accumulation of material wealth, the loss of all ideals other than the enjoyment and the accumulation of wealth. Then when the vigor of the nation has been sapped, a semi-barbarous nation, idle and strong, and possessed of idle invader, comes, takes possession and begins the work of reconstruction."

"Will our nation pass through this course? SPREAD OF GAMBLING AMONG THE ENGLISH CAUSE OF CONCERN

No Measures Have Yet Been Devised To Stop The Habit—Women Become Addicted To Vice.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 7.—The spread of gambling among the English, both men and women, is causing serious and growing concern. No measures yet have been devised to stop the habit, which rapidly is becoming more and more of a menace. On all big newsboys on the street to the peer in his motor has something on his favorite horse, and even on the everyday man an immense amount in the aggregate is wagered on the races. It has been disclosed that women working in offices and restaurants, in the city have become as inveterate gamblers as the men and boys. Nowadays both men and women, during the afternoon hours, are distracted from their work by their anxiety over the results of the races, and employers complain in vain.

The House of Commons, with a view of curbing this increase in the betting habit, passed a law prohibiting commission agents from accepting money on a bet, but this was easily evaded by the agents, carrying wagers on a credit system, settling on a cash basis. As the system works today any boy with a shilling to bet on a horse can go to almost any newspaper dealer and get his money down. Another measure to overcome this condition was met by opposition from the workingman, who claimed for himself the same privileges and opportunities accorded his wealthy neighbor, who can wager as freely as he likes by either going to the track or telephoning his commission agent.

The complaint is made also that gambling is spoiling golf. At most of the big clubs today members will not play unless assured of a good side bet on the result. It started with half a dollar a round, but at some clubs a game is seldom played for less than $25 a round or even $100 a round. The professional, too, who gets his fee for taking a novice around, now wants a wager on the result. Even if he gives the novice all he deserves, the professional generally can win.

Charles Tunnel Project U. S. The proposal to drive a tunnel under the English Channel between England and France, which for years was opposed to military men on the ground that it would destroy the isolation of England, is now being taken up seriously, with a better chance of going through than ever before.

The advance in flying made in recent years has already virtually taken away the advantage of isolation, but even more than this the good relations now existing between England and France have overcome the opposition of the scheme. The government is being urged to take the matter up seriously; people who cross the channel frequently favor the plan, and the railways, who have to keep up costly steamers for the channel service, are not opposed to the tunnel idea, for they know that with the abolition of the much dreaded channel crossing by sea, passenger traffic would increase immensely.

The President of the Austrian Chamber of Deputies has decided to make a trial of an electric voting machine for use in the House.

Each member will have two electric buttons on his desk, one marked 'Pro' and the other 'Contra.' The wall indicator is fixed, consisting of 516 glass tablets, numbered 1 to 516. These tablets are normally dark, but when light, or 'Pro' or 'Contra' is thrown, the glass tablet indicator is switched off, and only the counting apparatus remains active.

House Trial Difficulties. The recent attack on Prime Minister Asquith in the House of Commons, which involved the resignation of the suffragette, drew attention to the awkward situation of the House in dealing with such interruptions.

The House of Commons can summon to the bar and examine and cross-examine those who offend against its rules, by any proceedings of this kind must have the formalities of a trial and would involve the danger of the House a speech in defense in the view of the government, a defensive address thus delivered would be too big an advertisement for the cause of the suffragette, and this line has been avoided. Of course, Mr. Asquith could take out a summons for assault, but as he would then have to appear as a witness in a police court and would be subject to cross-examination, there is no possibility of his taking this step. The outcome, especially if there appears any danger of a repetition of the disorder, is likely to be the closing of the stranger's gallery, as was done last year.

The Government, some years ago, gave the House an opportunity of increasing its powers to deal with such offenders, but probably for fear that it might interfere with demonstrations by members themselves, the proposal was voted down.

Emigration Falls Off. There has been a remarkable falling off in emigration from Great Britain to the Australian colonies during the present year, according to the steamship companies concerned in this traffic. It is put down to the present high level of wages and the continued trade boom which have made employment in England. Despite this, however, Canada continues to get a very large number of emigrants from England and Scotland, so there are, probably other causes for the decrease in the Australian figures.

This loss in traffic has been felt rather seriously by the steamship lines running to the South Seas. Last year there was a tremendous demand for passages to Australia and New Zealand, and to meet this trade the steamship companies increased the accommodations on each vessel and also put on new steamers. Today the ships are running very light, even on reduced schedules.

Not Hard to Deceive Moslems. Times have changed since Captain Burton, 60 years ago, made a pilgrimage to Mecca at the peril of his life. A recent account of such a pilgrimage, by A. J. B. Wavell, says that with a passable knowledge of Arabic and of Moslem ceremonial, and with due precautions as to avoiding pilgrims from the country to which one pretends to belong, "the pilgrimage to Mecca may be made in disguise without running any risk worth mentioning."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

PAUL JONES.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

Paul Jones, one of the best known members of the Jones family in this country, was born 166 years ago yesterday in a fishing village in the southwestern part of Scotland. Mr. Jones did not stay where he was born long enough to learn the Scotch language, and on account of having been provided with an education in the place of less he never wore kilts with any degree of satisfaction.

As a young man, Mr. Jones removed to Virginia and hired out as a seaman to a gentleman who made good living by contracting along the coast of Africa and snaring slaves. He arrived home time King George III had decided to subdue the thirteen colonies by depriving them of Oolong tea, and not being in sympathy with this enterprise he had himself appointed commander of a fleet of vessels and announced that he would now raise seven kinds of intermittent purgatory on the high seas.

During the war Mr. Jones did several miles from land and tackled everything he met that looked as though it might have been made in England. This made him very unpopular, and the British admiralty offered a large reward to anybody who would capture him. He was in a gummy sack. Every once in a while Mr. Jones would steal up on a collection of English vessels which were not aware that he was in the same township, and after showing them the rattlesnake would blow them out of the water in a cheerful and whole-souled manner. He generally preceded this act by remarking "I have not yet begun to fight," a saying which has inspired many a high school graduate who later did most of his fighting with an 18-ounce cue.

After the war Mr. Jones went to Paris and lived on aculation and about win; it's for a number of years, after which he died in dire poverty July 18, 1792. He was the first to prove that the American is a good fighting man, wherever you find him, and a grateful country acknowledges the debt.

The country's full of wholesome air, unadorned, uncolored, unadorned. It's blowing round us everywhere, enough for woman, man and child. And yet we box ourselves up tight the whole year round in dusty rooms; and sickness gets the foolish wight who coaxes this fresh air into his room.

FRESH AIR sunes. And when he blows his wad for pills, and things you shake before you take, and tells long tales about his ill, describing every grievous ache. Fresh air preventive of all the ills that lie beneath our hats, within the reach of people poor, as well as that of plutocrats. And that's the reason why, no doubt, the fresh air cure-all doesn't win; it's for a number of years, after which he died in dire poverty July 18, 1792. He was the first to prove that the American is a good fighting man, wherever you find him, and a grateful country acknowledges the debt.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, July 5.—A large number turned out to the celebration and a general opinion prevailed that each and every one had a royal good time. Those who made the arrangements and those who took part in the day's program did their level best in making the celebration a grand success. The New Glarus Juvenile band, a special feature, headed the list of attractions. Their music was highly praised, and much appreciated by the people. The boys, in turn, spoke well of the eat, and voted it a pleasant visit here. Don Collins of Brodhead was here between trains Friday.

Doctors' Opinions About POSTUM

Are best expressed in their own words

Writing under date of May 13, 1913, one physician says:

"From past experience I have become a strong friend of Postum. I am now advising its use over that of coffee altogether, and find that most of those who give Postum a trial become users of it. It is however sometimes very hard or impossible to get folks to purchase something when they don't know anything about it, and don't want to throw away money on a chance of liking it."

THE SECRET OF LONESOME COVE

BY
SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS
Author of
"AVERAGE JONES, ETC."

"H-m! Has any one else seen it?" That old fraud of a plumber, Elder Dennett, saw me working on it yesterday, when he was doing some repairing here, and remarked that it gave him the creeps.

"Dennett?" Well, then that's all up," said Kent, as if speaking to himself. "There's a strict of restriction in all these New Englanders. He'd be sure to interpret it as a confession before the fact. However, Elder Dennett left this morning for a trip to Cadystown. That's so much to the good."

"He may have left for a trip to Hadestown for all I care," stated Sedgwick with conviction. "What's it all about, anyway?" "I tell you, as soon as I've pulled it over a little. Just let me cool my mind down with some more of your pictures." He turned to the wall border again and faced another picture out. "What's this? You seem to be something of a dab in black and white, too."

"Oh, that's an imaginary face," said Sedgwick carelessly. "Imaginary face studied from various angles," commented Kent. "It's a very lovely face, and the most wistful I've ever seen. A fairy, prisoned on earth by cockcrow, might wear some such expression of startled wondering purity, I fancy."

"Poetry as well as mystery!—Kent, you grow and expand on acquaintance. There is poetry in your study of that imaginary face. Imaginary. Um hum!" continued Kent, dryly as he stooped to the floor. "I suppose this is an imaginary hairpin, too."

"My Chinaman—began Sedgwick quickly, when the other caught him up. "Don't be uneasy. I'm not going to commit the betise of asking who she is."

"If you did, I give you my word of honor I couldn't tell you. I only wish I knew!" There was silence between them for a moment; then the painter broke out with the air of one who takes a resolution.

"See here, Kent! You're a sort of detective, aren't you?" "I've been called so."

"And you like my picture of The Rough Riders?" "The hundred dollars' worth."

"You can have that, and another picture in my studio, except this one," he indicated the canvas with the faces. "If you'll find out for me who she is."

"That might be done. We shall see. But frankly, Sedgwick, there's a matter of more importance."

"Importance? Good heavens, man! There's nothing so important in this world."

"Oh, is it bad as that?" A heavy knock sounded from below, followed by the Chinaman's voice, intermingled with boyish accents, demanding Sedgwick in the name of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

"Send him up," ordered Sedgwick, and the boy arrived; but not before Kent had quietly removed The Rough Riders from its place of exhibit.

"Special from," said Kent, and announced young Mercury. "Sit here. After the signature had been duly set down, and the sinner had read his message with knit brows, the urchin lingered, big with news."

"Kent turned quickly, to see Sedgwick's face. It was interested, but unmoved as he replied: "Where was it found?" "Lonesome Cove. Woman. Dressed well. Washed up on a grating last night or this morning."

"It's curious how they all come in here, isn't it?" said the artist to Kent. "This is the third this summer."

"You are the last person known to have seen her alive."

"Surely that isn't enough?" "Not of itself. There's a bruise back of your right ear."

"Who gave it to you?" pursued Kent. "You know it all without my telling you," said Sedgwick. "But I never saw the woman before in my life, Kent—I give you my word of honor! She came and went, but who she is or why she came or where she went I have no more idea than you have. Perhaps not nearly so much."

"There you are wrong. I'm depending on you to tell me about her."

"Not if my life hung on it. And how her being found drowned on the beach be connected with me?"

"I didn't say that she was found drowned on the beach."

"You did! No; pardon me. It was the messenger boy. But you said that her body was found in Lonesome Cove."

"That is quite a different matter."

"She wasn't drowned?" "I should be very much surprised if she hadn't been drowned in the water."

"But the boy said that the body was washed to a grating, and that there were chains on it. Is that true?"

"I was washed to a grating and manacled."

"Manacled? What a ghastly mystery!" Sedgwick dropped his chin in meditation. "If she wasn't drowned, then she was murdered and thrown overboard from a boat. Is that it?"

"Suppose you let me do the questioning for a while. You can give no clue whatsoever to the identity of your yesterday's visitor."

"There was the slightest possible hesitation before the artist replied, "None at all."

"If I find it difficult to believe that, what will the villagers think of it when Elder Dennett returns from Cadystown and tells his story, as he is sure to do?"

"Does Dennett know the woman?" "No; but it isn't his fault that he doesn't. He did his best in the interviewing line when he met her on her way to your place."

"She wasn't on her way to my place," objected Sedgwick. "The notion that she was, accordingly, with the true form of the body of a woman, dead by violence, is yours. He did his best in the interviewing line when he met her on her way to your place."

"The last person as far as is known to have seen her alive is yourself. She called on you, and there was a collision, apparently, between you and her, and she was killed."

"I did follow her," said Sedgwick in a low tone. "For what purpose?" "To find out who she was."

"Which you didn't succeed in doing."

"She was too quick for me. The blow of the rock had made me giddy, and she got away among the thickets."

"That's a pity. One more point of suspicion, Dennett, you say, saw your picture, The Rough Rider. He will tell the truth about it, you may be sure, every one about it, you may be sure."

"What of it?" "The strange coincidence of the subject, and the apparent manner of the unknown's death."

"People will hardly suspect that I killed her and set her adrift for model, I suppose," said the artist bitterly; "particularly as Dennett can tell them that the picture was finished before her death."

"Not that, but there will be plenty of witch-hangers among the Yankee populace, ready to believe that a fiend inspired both picture and murder in your being an artist."

"Why the very fact of your being an artist is a prima facie evidence of a compact with the devil, to some people. And you must admit a certain diabolical gnosticism, at that painting."

"Very likely. When I told her, she seemed relieved. I didn't even say relaxed. As if from the strain of nervous haste, you know."

"Good. And then?" "She thanked me, and asked if I were Mr. Sedgwick. I answered that I was, and suggested that she make good by completing the introduction."

"She wasn't a woman of your own class, then?" "Sedgwick looked puzzled. "Well, no. I thought not, that I shouldn't have been so free and easy with her. For one thing, she was painted badly, and the perspiration running down her forehead, had made her a sight."

"Yet, I don't know; her voice was that of a cultivated person. Her manner was awkward and her dress weird for that time of day, and, for all that, she carried herself like a person accustomed to some degree of consideration."

"That I felt quite sure of. I felt, too, something uncanny about her. Her eyes alone would have produced that impression. They were brilliant."

"Insane?" questioned Kent. "Not wholly sane, certainly; but it might have been drugs. That suggested itself to me."

"She asked what point of the head-land gave the best view. 'Anywhere from the first rise on is good,' I said. 'It depends on what you wish to see.'"

"My ship coming in, said she.—It will be a far view, then, I told her. 'This is a coast of guardian reefs. What difference? she said, and then gave me another surprise; for she quoted:

"'And though my soul sail leagues and leagues beyond— Still, leagues those leagues, there is more sea.'"

"That's interesting," remarked Kent. "Casual female wayfarers aren't given to quoting 'The House of Life.'"

"Nor casual ships to visiting this part of the coast. However, there was no ship. I looked for myself when I was trying to find the woman later. What are you smiling at?"

"Nothing. I'm sorry I interrupted."

"She walked away from me a few paces, but turned and came back at once."

"I follow my star," she said, pointing to planet that shone low over the sea. "There lies the only true happiness, to dare and to follow."

"It's a practice which has got many people into trouble and some into jail," I remarked.

"Do not be flippant, she replied in her deep tones. 'Perhaps under that star you move on dim paths to an unknown glory.'"

"See here, I broke out, 'you're making me uncomfortable. If you've got something to tell, please tell it, kindly, and to the point.'"

"Remember this meeting," she said in a tone of solemn command; "for it may mark an epoch in your life. Some day in the future I may send for you to have just said. In that day you will know the hidden things that she cleared only to the chosen minds. Perhaps you will be the last person but one to see me as I now am."

"Kent pulled nervously at the lobe of his ear. 'Is it possible that the foresaw her death?' he murmured. It would look so, in the light of what has happened, wouldn't it? Yet there was an uncanny air of joyousness about her, too."

"I don't like it," announced Kent. "I do not like it!"

By which he meant that he did not understand it. What Chester does not understand, Chester Kent resents. "Love-affair, perhaps," remarked the artist. "A woman in love will take any risk of death. However," he added, rubbing his bruised head reminiscently, she had a very practical bent, for a woman of her kind. After her mysterious prophecy she started on. I called to her to come back or I would follow her and make her explain herself."

"As to what?" "Explaining her being there, her actions, her—her—her jewelry, you know and all that."

"You've said nothing about jewelry. Haven't I? Well, when she turned—"

"Just a moment. Was it the jewelry that you were going to speak of when you first accosted her?"

"Yes, it was. Some of it was very valuable, I judge. Wasn't it found on the body?"

"No." "Robbery, then, probably. Well, she came back at a stride. Her eyes were alive with anger. There came a torrent of words from her strong words, too. Nothing of well-bred woman left there. I insisted on knowing who she was, and she burst out on me with laughter that was somehow more insulting than her speech. But when I told her I'd find out about her if I had to follow her into the sea, she stopped laughing fast enough. Before I could guard myself she had caught up a rock from the beach and was ready to throw it at me."

"I got up, she was well along toward the cliffs, and I never did find her trail in that maze of corpses and thickets."

"Show me your relative positions when she attacked you."

"The artist placed Kent, and moved off five paces. "About like that," he said, and she throw overhand or underhand?"

"It was so quick I hardly know. But I should say a short overhand snip. It came hard enough."

"Do not like it at all," said Kent again. "He wandered disconsolately and with half-closed eyes about the room, until he blundered into collision with a cot-lounge in the corner, spread with cushions. These he heaped up, threw his coat over them, stretched himself out with his feet propped high on the bed just erected, and closed his eyes.

"Sleepy?" inquired Sedgwick. "Busy," retorted his guest. "Like some more pillows."

"No. I'd like ten minutes of silence." The speaker opened one eye. "At the end of that time perhaps you'll think better of it."

"Of concealing an essentially important part of your experience, which has to do, I think, with the jewelry." At the end of the ten minutes, when Kent opened both eyes, his friend forestalled him with another query.

"You say that no jewels were found on the body. Was there any other mark of identification?"

"If there was, the sheriff got away with it before I saw it."

"How can you be sure, then, that the dead woman was a visitor?" "Dennett mentioned a necklace. On the crushed flesh of the dead woman's neck there is the plain impress of a jewel setting. Now, come Sedgwick! If I'm to help you in this, you must help me. Had you ever seen that necklace before?"

"Yes," was the reply, given with obvious reluctance. "Where?"

"On the neck of the girl of my picture."

Kent's fingers went to his ear, pulling at the lobe until that unoffending pendant stretched like rubber. "You're sure?" he asked.

"There couldn't be any mistake. The stones were matched rose-topazes, you mightn't find another like it in the whole country."

Kent whistled, soft and long. "I'm afraid, my boy," he said at length, "I'm very much afraid that you'll have to tell me the whole story of the romance of the pictured face; and this time without reservation."

"That's what I've been guarding against," retorted the other. "I can't tell a thing that I can tell, man to man. Don't you understand? Or," he added savagely, "do you understand?"

THE REWARD OF THE FAITHFUL
Before one works like a blazer, And every one amazes, He should look o'er His task once more In all its turns and phases.

I.
At 9.40 on Monday morning the boss hired him.

Now just work as hard as you know how," said the boss. "Never mind the clock and never mind whether you're working overtime, undertime or all the time, and you'll be promoted before you know it."

II.
At 8.30 Tuesday morning he started in on his second day's work.

For lunch he sent out for a French fried Graham cracker and never took his eyes off his work while he ate it. After everybody else but the boss and the boss' stenographer had left the office for the day, he still stuck at it.

"Maybe if I don't sleep much and eat less I'll be able to get that promotion the very first week," he thought.

III.
At 6.50 on Tuesday evening the boss fired him. At 6.58 he left the office for good.

"The darned chump!" remarked the boss as he gave his stenographer the evening kiss. "He stuck around all lunch hour yesterday and so late in the evening that I couldn't get a chance to see you alone, and here today he was at the same game. Darned chump!"

IV.
The boss was so angry that he gave his stenographer the evening kiss. "He stuck around all lunch hour yesterday and so late in the evening that I couldn't get a chance to see you alone, and here today he was at the same game. Darned chump!"
